UNIVERSAL DESIGN/AGING IN PLACE

Bonnie J. Lewis

Allied ASID, 55+ TLC Interior Design, 55plustlc.com

DETAILS

No longer loving her bathroom, the homeowner wanted something beautifully designed for aging in place. The new floor plan increased the shower and water closet to meet ADA code. A new 36-inch-wide clear glass shower door and enclosure added visual expanse. The floor-to-ceiling field and large-format accent tile create a stunning shower that includes a hand-held showerhead and shampoo niche within reach of the ADA-compliant wall-mounted seat. Curbless shower entry, good lighting, slip-resistant shower floor tile, attractive above the pony walls discreetly provide safety, support and wheelchair accessibility. The new design conveys an elegant, luxurious ambiance in relaxing hues.

BONNIE LEWIS

Bonnie is the principal of Scottsdale-based Bonnie J. Lewis Design, which recently evolved from her 55+ TLC Interior Design firm, founded in 2013. Well known as the “go-to luxury well aging designer,” Bonnie has often been asked by homeowners who don’t identify as 55+ if she would do “regular design.” Because her design talent is versatile, the answer was always yes. Her new firm Bonnie J. Lewis Design provides concierge design service for luxury residential, luxury residential well aging, and commercial interiors. More than ever, Bonnie believes the way our home looks, the way it functions and the way we interact with it provides the foundation to achieve a greater wellbeing. She innovatively designs inspiring, functional environments that meet our ever-changing needs for comfort and joy. Bonnie customizes her design for each client’s style preference and objectives.

Bonnie has earned 35 national and regional Design Excellence Awards from seven organizations in eight years, including a 2021 “Best of Show” from ASID, “Overall Best” from NAHB Remodelers, and an HGTV People’s Choice Award. She was honored as 1 of 32 in the U.S., designated as a “2020 Innovator Honoree,” by Kitchen and Bath Design News. Bonnie’s work has been featured in Taunton’s New Bathroom Idea Book and in numerous national and local publications.
